

WORKSHEET

Your Wish List

You and your spouse or partner should each create your own wish lists and reality checks (see next worksheet for how to create a reality check). After you're done, sit together and work through each item. Since you'll only be able to afford one home, you should create one wish list and one reality check from which to start your search.

NOTE: if your list exceeds twenty items, continue on a blank sheet of paper (or pull out your laptop or tablet) until you've put everything you've ever wished for in a home in writing. Be as specific and detailed as possible. Being specific will make it easier for your agent to assist you in finding the right home.
